FROM FATHER'S DESK

Father Nathaniel Meyers

While it is not particularly major news in comparison to the many other events taking place in the world, I cannot help but think that the recent decision of the U.S. Senate to jettison its informal dress code is a cultural marker worthy of reflection. For several decades, many societies around the world have been moving public dress—both in formal and informal settings—towards greater and greater casualness, sometimes even outright crudeness. The decision to allow senators—though, interestingly enough, not their assistants or any witnesses testifying before the senate—to wear whatever they deem fit while working in the chamber is the latest casualty in this onslaught of discarding norms for the sake of one's own individual preferences.

By no means am I a prude when it comes to dress codes, but they do serve important purposes and if we change them, it should only be done after careful consideration of both why the dress code exists in its current form and what consequences may flow from making the change. Take for instance the trend within the Catholic Church where it was fashionable for a season for priests to drop wearing clerics as a way of trying to stress solidarity with the laity and with the idea that this would make the priest more approachable. The problem was that this change, which thankfully is mostly abandoned now, missed the point that the clerics themselves were always meant to help people easily identify the priest. More than a few times I have been in public wearing my clerics to have people approach me with deep questions, a request for prayers, or just to express gratitude. None of these instances would have happened were I to have forgone wearing clerics as a general rule.

"Clothes make the man," Mark Twain is said to have remarked, "Naked people have little or no influence on society." As our culture's increased pursuit of leisurely attire and casualness even in formal matters marches forward, I wonder if it will be accompanied by a decrease in our ability to achieve greatness and advance serious work. Call me old-fashioned, but I would love to see a return to suits in offices, plumbers and electricians wearing collared shirts, slacks as normal in public settings, and the abolishment of "casual Friday." Perhaps not only others, but we ourselves would take our work more seriously and see in it greater glory.

In Christ,
Fr. Meyers

NATIONAL PRO-LIFE PRAYER EVENT

Sunday, October 1st | 2:00-3:30pm
Praying Along Highway 55 | By Culvers

Stand with thousands of pro-lifers throughout the USA! LIFE CHAIN is a peaceful and prayerful public witness of pro-life Americans standing for 1½ hour on our roadways praying for our nation and for an end to abortion. It is a visual statement of solidarity by the Christian community that abortion kills children and that we support the sanctity of human life from the moment of conception until natural death.

This is our 18th Life Chain in Buffalo, but National Life Chain Sunday has been held throughout the United States since 1987. Bring your whole family. Rain or shine! Please dress appropriately for the weather. Lawn chairs, umbrellas and strollers are welcome. We'll be on the bike/walking path that faces Highway 55 between Highway 25 and County Road 35. Park on the service road west of Culvers. Look for the coordinators of this event and get your signs and instructions.

If you would like more information, contact Kathy Patterson at 763-682-6100 or fpatterson@wwdb.org.

CATHOLIC Q & A: ST. JEROME

Question: Who is St. Jerome and why is he so significant that we honor him with a feast on Sept. 30?

Answer: St. Jerome (345–420) was considered the greatest biblical scholar of his day, conversant with Latin, Greek, and Hebrew. He set about translating the books of the Bible from their original languages into Latin.

Much of Jerome's correspondence has survived and gives us a powerful glimpse into the kind of person that he was, as well as the time in which he lived. Jerome eventually became Pope Damasus' (366–384) personal secretary. In the West, Latin was overtaking Greek as the language of the common people. The pope desired a translation of the Bible that would be accurately translated from the original languages into the language and idiom of the people. Previous Latin translations existed, but they were poor in quality.

Jerome set about this task and spent the rest of his life meticulously translating. He is credited with the translation of the Bible known as the Vulgate, a Latin translation intended to address the needs of the common people. That translation became the standard and the only one used by Catholics until modern times. Catholics did not actively engage in a similar process until 1943, when Pius XII allowed Catholic scholars once again to go back to the original languages and translate an accurate and meticulous version of the Bible. We carry on that tradition to this very day. ©LPI

(PRACTICING) CATHOLIC

Recognize God in Your Ordinary Moments
By: Colleen Jurkiewicz Dorman

The Invitation to the Vineyard — I have been working since I was 17, and in that time, I've encountered my fair share of bosses who don't like being, well, fair.

There's the retail gig that paid me less than minimum wage because I was a minor and scheduled me for long shifts because it meant cheaper labor. There's the restaurant manager who tried to convince me to leave seventh period early so I could waitress on a busy dinner shift (totally illegal, by the way). There's the unpaid internship with the editor who had no work/life balance.

Our resumes are all full of these experiences — it's capitalism, after all. It conditions us to look out for ourselves, because we know no one else will. And it breeds an attitude of suspicion that often blooms into jealousy when we encounter the reckless mercy of God.

Most of us work hard for what we have in this life, and so we make the mistake of thinking we deserve the good things that come our way. That's all right and good when we're talking about a just wage. But sometimes we get our lines blurred and begin to think we deserve, or have done something to earn, the salvation offered by Christ.

I am not the laborer who has borne the heat of long hours in the sun. I am the straggler, the lost one, the idler at the marketplace as the day draws to a close.

"As high as the heavens are above the earth, so high are my ways above your ways, and my thoughts above your thoughts." —Isaiah 55:9
