FROM FATHER'S DESK

Father Nathaniel Meyers

I recently have started reading Plato again, as I realized I had not sat down with this giant of philosophy in quite some time. While I won't bore everyone here with all the intricacies of Plato's philosophy, I would like to highlight one specific aspect of his thinking. The Theory of Forms is a metaphysical concept that suggests that the physical world is not as real as the realm of, in Plato's words, "the Forms." Forms, according to Plato's theory, are the non-physical, timeless, absolute, and unchangeable essence of things. For example, if we were to follow this theory—and certainly there are many who do not, including Plato's own student, Aristotle—this would mean that all of the color red that we see in this world is actually a manifestation of a singular essence (or Form) that we could call "Redness." Plato would apply this to every object and state that the Form of all that we see exists in "a place beyond heaven" and that the Forms are the perfect reality of all things and from where we draw our knowledge.

All of this philosophy above is simply a preamble to a joke and boast I have made about my dog, Marty, for a number of years now. It is no secret to anyone who knows me well that Marty is my favorite dog and I have regularly boasted that Marty is the Platonic Form of a dog. It's my own little jokey way of saying that this fine Brittany Spaniel, born on a farm in Austin, MN on Flag Day of 2012, is the best dog ever. The added philosophical language in calling Marty the Platonic Form of a dog is kind of a throwdown that I'm not content to just say he's my favorite dog, but that he is objectively the best dog that could ever exist. Sadly, however, Marty developed cancer and it spread rapidly through his body. As the disease spread and Marty's health declined, he died this past week. Fortunately, shortly before his passing and even after receiving a cancer diagnosis, the Brittany Spaniel par excellence showed his preeminence once again by taking part in and winning the dog obstacle course as part of the marathon prize for our Catholic School students. All the way to the very end, Marty never disappointed and has made me all the more resolute in claiming him to be the Platonic Form of a dog.

Of course it is sad to lose a pet, but the fact is that death claims all living creatures eventually. Even the objectively best dog that could ever exist cannot escape it, but this is the way things work and I've found Marty's death to be a time to reflect on the nature of God's creation. Dogs are a wonderful part of that creation—and Marty in particular will always be a treasured part of it for me—but the focus must always be on the creator and not the creature. I'm grateful to have experienced God's creative power in Marty and how blessed I was to be given the Platonic Form of a dog as a dear companion for over the past decade.

In Christ,
Fr. Meyers

This Thanksgiving -
Let us remember to thank God for all the gifts and people that have come into our lives.

Let us pray...

God our Father,
Graciously accept from your humble people
a thankful heart and spirit.

Everything we have and are able to share with others
ultimately comes from your love of your creations.

Often we think that everything we have
is our own creation;
we ask you this day to create in us
a spirit of gratitude, that we may always know
that all good gifts come from you.

We ask this through Christ our brother,
in the power of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER JESSE TREE

The Jesse Tree is an Advent custom using stories to help people have a stronger sense of who Jesus is, and who the people were that pointed the way to Him. The ornaments will have gift card requests for families in need. We are very appreciative of your past support in making the holidays brighter for area families in need. The need is incredibly great this year as many families struggle financially and emotionally. St. Francis Xavier has been asked to be the Emergency Church, which means we will help families who may have missed the registration for Adopt-A-Family.

The Jesse Tree ornaments will be available next weekend, November 25th/26th. Please read the prayer on the back of the ornament, and purchase the item requested. Return the actual Jesse Tree ornament with your gift card or the money for us to purchase the gift card to the box by the Jesse Tree, place in the collection basket, or drop off at the Parish Office by Monday, December 11th, or as soon as possible after that date. This allows time for our volunteers to purchase the needed items and for the gifts to be distributed.
