

13TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

FROM FATHER'S DESK

Father Nathaniel Meyers

I saw a headline recently that read, "Black Death origin mystery solved — 675 years later!" We all have heard various account of the Black Death, the most infamous bubonic plague in world history that stands as the most fatal pandemic in human history and one that markedly changed nearly every aspect of human life in Europe. As someone who has had a cursory interest in the Black Death for years, I couldn't help but read this article. According to evidence found in a burial ground in Kyrgyzstan, a mountainous landlocked country in Central Asia, a rise of deaths occurred from the Black Death beginning in 1338—roughly ten years before the previously confirmed first case in Crimea.

The implications of the Black Death's origins will not make much difference to any of us living in the 21st century, of course, and even a careful reading of the article reveals that the headline is an overstatement; none of the historians researching this subject claim to have solved the origin of the Black Death, but simply to have found evidence that leads to further questions. Although this historical investigation will not have any direct impact on us, the story nevertheless struck me as one worth our considering as we look at the COVID-19 pandemic as well as the many other investigations or debates which currently embroil our world. If after nearly an entire century of investigation we still do not have a firm answer on the origins of the Black Death, we should be quite hesitant to assume we will have definitive answers on the events and times in which we live.

There is a natural tendency in each of us to rush to a conclusion and assume we know all the relevant information. However, we should work against this inclination and always have a healthy amount of humility when evaluating any given issue, whether it is a worldwide pandemic, a political crisis, or even a dispute with a neighbor. None of us is omniscient and our knowledge will always be incomplete. The search for the truth is one that never ends, but thankfully we do have God's revelation in the Scriptures and the Tradition to guide us along the path of truth. As we look into the mysteries of life—both in the past and in the present—let us all make good use of the Catholic faith in coming to a deeper awareness of the truth.

In Christ,
Fr. Meyers

SHARING AND CARING HANDS

This week members of our parish once again prepared and delivered a meal consisting of 3 large electric roasters of hamburger rice hot-dish, lettuce and vegetables for salad, 10 loaves of buttered bread, 10 gallons of milk, and many bars and cookies to the homeless at the Sharing & Caring Hands shelter in Minneapolis. Thanks to all of those who helped prepare, deliver and serve the meal, or who helped in any other way. You are much appreciated.

Our next meal will be served on August 16th. Please consider helping with this work of mercy. If you cannot physically help, please remember to pray for the success of this and other organizations that minister to the poor and homeless.

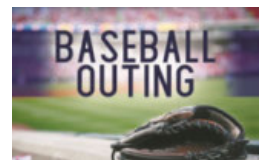

"Christ has no body now but yours. No hands, no feet on earth but yours. Yours are the eyes through which he looks compassion on this world. Yours are the feet with which he walks to do good. Yours are the hands through which he blesses all the world. Yours are the hands, yours are the feet, yours are the eyes, you are his body. Christ has no body now on earth but yours."

UNBORN BABY ADOPTION PROGRAM

Three Month Developing Baby

Your baby is quite active in the womb now - although its mother won't feel the baby for another couple of months. If the mother's womb had a window, you could watch your spiritually adopted baby squint, swallow, and move its tongue. The baby can make a tight fist if you touch its palm. The baby obtains the oxygen its body needs through the umbilical cord. The baby you are praying for now weighs one ounce. What a miracle it is!

PRAYER: Jesus, Mary and Joseph I love you very much. I beg you to spare the life of the unborn child that I have spiritually adopted who is in danger of abortion.
